

Justice for Jordan Miles

Rally & March

Sat, June 12 • 12 noon

Gather at Freedom Corner

(Crawford Street and Centre Avenue)

On January 12th, plain-clothes police officers Richard Ewing, Michael Saldutte and David Sisak brutally beat Jordan Miles, a CAPA honors student and viola player. On March 19th, Ewing, Saldutte and Sisak were awarded commendations by the Pittsburgh Police Bureau.

The officers involved claim that Jordan was carrying something heavy and resisted arrest. Considering that the three officers were not wearing uniforms and were driving an unmarked vehicle, his desire to escape was more than justified. Jordan Miles' only crime was being a black teenager in Homewood.

While Jordan is one of the most recent victims, any one of us could be next. People across communities need to stand up and demand an end to police brutality. On June 12th, let's make it clear that racist attacks on Pittsburgh's youth by those who are paid to protect us will not go unanswered in a system that demands equality for all!

Join us to demand:

- Prosecute Richard Ewing, Michael Saldutte and David Sisak!
- End racial profiling and police brutality!
- Community control of the police force!
