

This is a guide to a fictional service station operated by the fictional company AVAR, Pullingham Upon Thames, located on the A34 northbound a few miles from Oxford south.

At this services there is a shop which is only open 2 hours a day, a small Burger King and a Little Chef. Until recently there was only the Little Chef but Burger King have purchased the second unit, making the Little Chef smaller.

Pictures

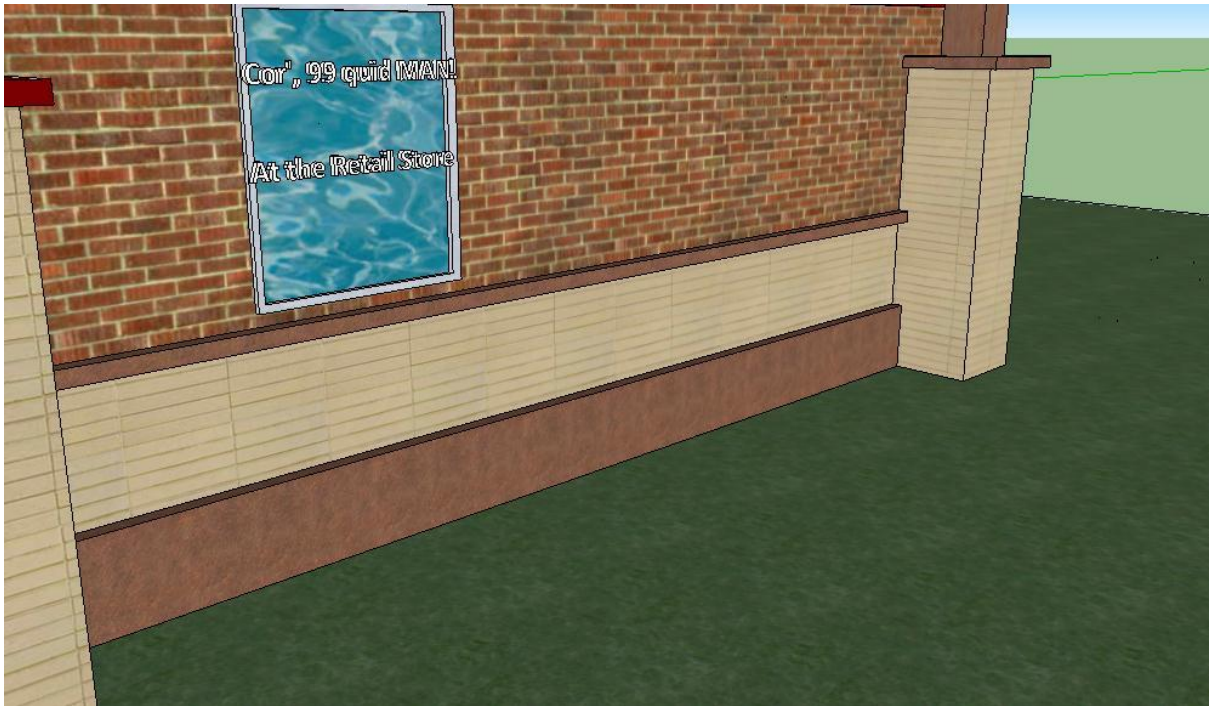

Looking from the Little Chef towards the Burger King there is still some essence of Little Chef around, such as the red lampshades.

Looking at the retail store at lunchtime, they are nearly always shut.

At the back of the Burger King, showing the shared toilet sign.

The Burger King side of the services, with an advertisement of the shop.

The Little Chef servery. Note the '50's style diner stools.

The front of the building, with the Little Chef on the left.

In the former waiting room of the old barbers now lies the burger king.